

The Mission

Monday, 06 November 2006

The primary objective of the Intercultural centre is to provide a forum for a multicultural society in Iceland. In a society that is truly multicultural, there is a dynamic interaction between all peoples of various different origins. In a multicultural society, different cultural groups live together, side by side. They are all equal, showing mutual respect for each other, working together towards the common goal of creating a multicultural society.

The Intercultural Centre promotes this dynamic interaction between peoples of different origins and cultural backgrounds. The Intercultural Centre works systematically to prevent prejudice in our society by providing extensive educational programmes, introductions to different societies, cultural events and by creating an inclusive forum where those of Icelandic origin interact with those who have come to Iceland from abroad. The Intercultural Centre is an advocate for the rights of migrants and everyone of non-Icelandic descent.
